

WHAT IF?

What if governments could raise needed funds without using taxation or otherwise impacting personal and business income?

In other words, what if taxes were not necessary?

What if all payments of taxes could be rebated 100%?

In other words, what if tax payments were offset by relief provided privately?

What if salaries and benefits paid could produce guaranteed ancillary income to a business equal to twice amounts paid?

In other words, what if hiring could be profitable regardless of whether or not a position produces direct business income?

What if benefits paid by an insurance company could be offset by immediate income to the insurance company equal to twice the amount paid?

In other words, what if an insurance company could profit by promptly and completely paying any type of claims?

What if all costs of purchasing could be rebated 100% to a business, to a government, and/or to a non-profit organization, regardless of amount paid and irrespective of vendors used?

In other words, what if a business, a government, and/or a non-profit organization does not have to deplete resources or incur debt in order to buy what it needs?

What if charitable organizations did not have to solicit funds in order to satisfy their own needs and/or the emergency needs of individuals and/or societies?

In other words, what if charity were to be limited only by the personal dedication of people helping other people, without being limited by funding resources?

What if currency could be gold backed without having to change currency or anything in law; and, without requiring any government intervention?

In other words, what if ordinary citizens could cause and insist that currency be backed by gold by following commercial law?

WHAT IF ALL OF THE ABOVE COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED THROUGH PRIVATE ENTERPRISE, WITHOUT GOVERNMENT FUNDING?
